Grand Jury Reveals Suspicion of Wide Operations of Ring

New York, June 20.

Mrs. Jessie Jordan, the Dundee hairdresser who was sentenced in Scotland on May 16 to four years' penal servitude for espionage against Great Britain, is among the 18 defendants named in the Federal Grand Jury indictments.

Other defendants include Lt. Commander Udo von Benin and Commander Herman Menzel, both believed to be residing in Berlin and confected with the Defence Office of the German Wail Ministry.

Doctor Ignatz Griebl and Herr Werner Gudenberg, two missing witnesses who disappeared from New York at the height of the Japanese Admit Severe investigations, are also among the indicted persons.

Other defendants are a hairdresser aboard German liner Europa, an aeroplane mechanic, a private in the U.S. Army, and an Air Force sergeant in the U.S. Army who deserted in 1935.

Nine other defendants are described as residents of Germany.

The Government Prosecutor in charge of the investigations said that the brains of the alleged "Spy Ring" lived in Germany, and were connected with the German Government. They operated through agents in the United States and members of the crews of ships plying between Germany and American ports.

posal by the Turkish delegate that in order to prepare the ground for a conference to limit the cultivation of the opium poppy, a conference of opium producing countries should first be called to fix minimum prices. Mr. Amau, the Japanese delegate, said that if such a conference should be called, Manchukuo, as a producing country, must be invited to attend. Dr. Hoo, the Chinese delegate, retorted: "By raising such questions, Japan wants to torpedo the conference for the limitation of poppy cultivation. Only the Council of the League of Nations is qualified to promote such a conference and decide to whom invitations shall be issued, especially if the questions of Manchuria and Jehol are raised." France Denies Breach Of Neutrality

Paris, June 20. The French Government's surprise at Japanese allegations that France was sending war materials to China was expressed to the Japanese Ambassador to-day by M. Georges Bonnet, the Foreign Minister.

Referring to the possibility of a Japanese invasion of Hainan Island, to which the Japanese Foreign Office spokesman referred yesterday, it is pointed out in responsible quarters that the Japanese Government in the past had indicated that the island would not be occupied if France observed neutrality.

The French Covernment considers that It has remained impartial in the Sino-Japanese conflict and therefore feels that there would be no justifiention for a Japanese occupation of Hainan Island. However, it is admitted that the occupation would not violate the Franco-Japanese Treaty

Line and Colour

INE is what you have to Li think most about, then

A long, long line, of course, is the thing. Don't break it anywhere except, gently, at the waist, and then with a sash-like, tie-up belt of the  same stuff as the dress, or a half tie-up belt in front, or two half-belts at each side, leaving a straight, unbroken line back and front.

Your dress should not be an affair of shapeless, loose folds, but should quietly touch the figure, then hang away, unrestricted and ensual.

There was once a fashion school of thought which would have put all women into cross-over bodices that broke low at the hip line. We know better now. The waist line, however, large, should always be indiented. You don't hide it by calling attention to larger hips.

Obviously in colour you have to be quiet as possible. By quiet I don't mean drab. I wouldn't want you to spend your life in vicarage

ments, good-looking costume jewellery. Keen away from flower button-holes.

Popular Prints

COME of this year's fashions, though designed, course, for slim women, are as kind as they can be to fat women. The striped fabrics, for instance. A plain dress with a narrow front and back striped panel is a great size diminisher. All narrow panels are.

All the small spot fabrics and small flower prints currently popular are good friends of yours. So are the front and back focused fullness on afternoon and evening dresses, the feeling for low V necklines. The collarless edge-to-edge cont which rages this season should never go out of a fat woman's wardrobe Neither should the loose hip length or finger-tip length cont and dress ensemble. Especially when the coat has long turned-back fronts, as you see in the two coats drawn in this

Although the proceedings of the court established beyond reasonable doubt the sequence of events which led to the collision, they did little, if anything, to solve the mystery which people found, and still find, most baffling about the whole affair. How was it that Admiral Tryon ever came to give the fatal order?

When we recall the facts, the problem becomes more puzzling than The Admiral then signalled "Send ever. The admiral had the reputathe boy stayed and went down with credit. Nor does the evidence in any way help to elucidate a problem which appeared to be largely psychological.

If it had transpired that Admiral Tryon was absent-minded or careless or deaf, or subject to fits of mental aberration, an explanation might have been suggested. But the evidence flatly contradicted any theory of the kind. It all served to show that the admiral was a cool, well-balanced, efficient and experienced sailor.

The mystery deepens when we consider what actually took place in the flagship. The officers principally concerned were the Admiral himself, Captain Bourke, Captain Hawkins Smith, the staff-commander, and Lord Gillford, the flag-lieutenant.

In the early afternoon, when the coming manocuvres were being discussed, both Bourke and Hawkins Smith suggested to the Admiral that the distance of six cables between the two columns was insufficient, and the Admiral seems to have agreed that it should be increased to eight. The Staff-commander then went on deck, and shortly afterwards the Admiral sent for Lord Gillford and gave him the definite order to be transmitted by signal to the squadron. While the order itself was verbal, the Admiral actually took the trouble to write the figure 6 on a piece of paper, which he handed to the Fing-licutenant. Gillford then went off. and showed the paper to the Staffcommander, who insisted that there must have been some misunderstanding, since it had been agreed that the ... (Continued on Page 5.)

TWO CHINESE SUCCESSES SCORED AT WIMBLEDON

KHO AND CHOY ENTER SECOND ROUND EASILY

NO UPSETS RECORDED IN FIRST DAY'S PLAY

No surprises were registered in the first day's play at the Wimbledon tennia championships yesterday when first round matches in the men's singles were played.

Of the three Chinese who participated, two got through to the next round, Kho Sin-kie, the Chinese champion who recently won the Bournemouth hard-court torunament. defeated H. A. Hare in three sets; W. C. Choy, another Chinese Davis Cupper and former Cambridge "Blue," had a two-hour match with Hamburger and emerged successful; but J. H. Ho was eliminated by Ranbir Singh, of India.

Donald Budge, holder and Invourite for the ditle, was up against Gandar Dower, the former Cambridge allrounder, and won fairly comfortably In straight sets by 0-2, 6-3, 6-3,

"Bunny" Austin, Great Britain's main hope, was fully extended by his young compatriot, Eric Filby, who took him to five sets before succumblog. Actually, Filby took the first set, but Austin came back to win the second with the loss of only one game. Then Filly won the third This was his last success, however, for Austin went on to nanex the next two sets for the match.

CHINESE SUCCESSES

Kho Sin-kie entered the second Playing round at the expense of H. A. Hore, of Great Britain, winning by 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 The Chinese featured his play with neat rhythmic stroking, his only weakness being his service, which was not in its usual good working order.

W. C Choy was featured in a match which lasted nearly two hours. Playing against Hamburger, he and his opponent had a long baseline dunt from which the Chinese emerged the winner by 6-4, 2-6, 0-2, 0-3.

The Chinese Davis Cupper was fluent in his driving in the first set but was erratic in the second, overdriving and netting frequently. He made many errors in this set.

Hamburger's stolld play and retrieving saved him many points and he occasionally beat Choy with a Paynter made only nine, while iddon? clever drop shot, but he made the had 44, Oldfield 69 and Phillipson 52, mistake of lobbing to the Chinese, E. Displaying better courteraft, the Chinese won the third set but the effort seemed to unduly the him. The Indian then smashed his way to scores: victory.

In cutting the bowling down to ostensible four men it must be remembered that I have only referred to Hammond as a bat so far. Of course he takes a very prominent part in the bowling.

Test Match which begins on Friday next at Lord's will cause little surprise. In fact the only thing that occurred to me was that it was rather unlucky to select thirteen! Twelve would be too few -especially in these days of such fragile cricketers as we seem to have, but fourteen might be luckier even if it did mean an extra man missing a county match! Probably however it would not. Before the First Test no less than fifteen in all were warned for duty, I think. Before indulging in speculations! To start with we can eliminate about the probable eleven let us Ames. He is bound to keep and if dropped altogether. As regards Yardley there will be no surprise. who is the better man. Yardley's brilliant fielding especially in Cambridge matches this year resulted in his inclusion as twelfth man—the man who comes out to sub. in case of injury. But there are plenty of men who could be called on for this, As a matter of fact Yardley is probably vastly relieved, as he will be uncommonly busy at Hove with his Cambridge eleven, of which the' bowling is such consummate tripe on 2nd July! (Incidentally it is interesting to notice that besides course would seriously prejudice playing Cambridge at Hove, Sussex either the run-getting or the

THE BOWLERS

Assuming all chosen are fit,—and there seem to be an amazing number of muscular injuries now-a-days, compared with one's recollection of those of the past—the first thing to remember is that the game is at Lord's—always a lively wicket, though better now than it has been for some time. Incidentally it is, I suppose, well known that Lord's has a very slight slope from the Scoring Box side down towards the Mound Stand side. Consequently it is easier to turn the ball from the off when bowling from the Pavillon end and from leg when bowling from the Nursery end. All this will be significant when we consider the bowling.

It is somewhat easier to argue the case about the bowlers, but not to make a forecast, as so much depends on the wicket and a selection quite possibly might not be made until the morning of the match. There are two outstanding points. If it is an absolute mud-pat I think one of the two fast bowlers would be dropped—possibly Farnes as Wellard splns them a bit more and would be available for bowling for a longer period than Farnes who has to have a hard wicket. On the other, hand if the wicket is hard and likely to be fast, there seems no doubt that be fast, there seems no doubt that be a question of dropping Sinfield or Wright and I imagine it would be It is somewhat easier to argue the

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE
Bill Jordan goes to a night club with a girl to celebrate his twenty-first birthday. Another man trice to take the girl uway from him and in the argument that follows, Bill kills him accidentally. Distirct Attorney Mathews sympathizes with the boy's unfortunate plight. It is one of those unfortunate things, he says, that could happen to any-body. Nevertheless, a man is dead and Bill must be punished. However, instead of trying him for murder, Mathews allows Bill to take a plea of manelaughter.

With the bundles of the day's shopping. "Put them in the kitchen, Jordan," she said. When the doctor had left she joined Bill in the kitchen. He was busy storing away the supplies. Elizabeth spoke to him.

"Jordan," she said, "about a week ngo I lost a handkerchief with a blue border. Did you happen to see it?"

Bill turned to her, flushed and confused. "Why no, Miss Elizabeth. I didn't. I'm sorry." When he had finished in the kitchen, he started for the door. Elizabeth stopped him.

The con-victs, assembled in the pard for their recreation period start their unearthly "yammering" - a mothod they use to show their dis-like for something or someone. Against the advice of the head keeper. Warden Mathews faces the men alone in the yard. He singles out Tex, the prisoners' self-appointed leader. When he was district attorney, Mathews and he did it. Now he's warden and it's his job to bess the prison.
He's going to do is, Mathews says, and every man will be treated exactly as he deserves. Later, Bill collapses in the fute mill. The doctor examines him and recommends a change of work and environment for him. He le summoned to Warden Mathews office where Mathews recognises him as the boy he sent up six years before, While

HAPPENINGS

In process of building at Clydebank, Scotland, known officially so far as "No. 552," is the new Cunard liner, Queen Elizabeth, expected to be launched on Sept. 27 and put into service between Southampton and New York in April, 1940. Above is how the new 85,000-ton occan queen will look. This picture was taken from a photograph of a builders' model superimposed on a seascape. Her length will be 1,032 and her beam 118 feet, same as her sister ship, the Queen Mary,

Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader, shown atop his sound truck, left, in London, as he exchanged salutes with a group of his followers. The occasion was the May Day demonstration in London's east end. Other Fascist and Labourite groups met near the Houses of Parliament. Police prevented rioting.

Strikers at the Ford plant in Mexico City raise the red and black strike flag over the factory entrance. About 350 employees, in the $1,500,000 assembly unit, demanded a collective labour contract, which officials refused. Ensuing strike was first permitted by the Government against a foreign plant, since the oil expropriations.

Girl Accuses Three Troopers

KING'S GUARD MEN CALLED "AN UNDISCIPLINED LOT"

Three troopers of the Royal Horse Guards, members of what is known as the King's Guard, were remanded in custody at Bow Street recently charged with being concerned in a serious offence against a girl aged 14 and nine months.

Mr. Vincent Evans, prosecuting, described the men as a "thoroughly undisciplined lot," and the N.C.O. in charge as "entirely unreliable."

The three men in the dock were rebuked by the magistrate (Mr. Dummett) during the hearing.

"You prisoners had better stand up if you cannot sit there celving the blood, and doctors were without making observations to each other," he said.

In north Honan with the exception of skeleton forces maintained at strategic towns along the Peiping-Hankow Railway and the Taokou-Chinghua Rallway, the majority of the Japanese troops are concentrated at Fengchiu north of the Yellow River, 50 miles from Kaifeng. Corseting is an easier business than exercising. I agree, my dears, it is hard to begin exercises when you have never done them before, There are so many clever foundations on sale, and all the big stores have experts in their corset departments who will advise and fit you with the suitable one for your figure.

No High Heels

CHOES should give proper support to the ball and arch of your foot, never mind about anything else. Never wear high heels or short vamps or high fronts, because these shorten the leg.

A medium heeled, fairly longfronted court, tie, or wide strapped shoe is your best bet. Nothing looks worse than a smart shoe bulging over a fat ankle.

Avoid anything that gives any part of the body a look of strain or tightness. Gloves should always be a little loose and wrinkly around the Large hats are a mistake, so are tiny hats. So is a full hair-dressing, Your aim is not to disguise your fat, but to minimise it without appearing to do so. So go for sleek hairdressing and medium-sized hats that cover a good part of the head,

Line and Colour

I INE is what you have to Li think most about, then

A long, long line, of course, is the thing. Don't break it anywhere except, gently, at the waist, and then with a sash-like, tie-up belt of the same stuff as the dress, or a half tie-up belt in front, or two half-beits at each side, leaving a straight, unbroken line back and front.

Your dress should not be an affair of shapeless, loose folds, but should quietly touch the figure, then hang away, unrestricted and casual. There was once a fashion school of thought which would have put all women into cross-over bodices that broke low at the hip line. We know better now. The waist line, however, large, should always be in-diented. You don't hide it by calling attention to larger hips.

Obviously in colour you have to be quiet as possible. By quiet I don't mean drab. I wouldn't want you to spend your life in vicarage

greys.
You should wear all the darks, and lighten them with white pique touches, pipings down centre front, an entire pique waistcoat front, slips inside a V neckline. Wear small, bright lapel ornaments, good-looking costume jewellery. Keep away from flower button-holes.

Popular Prints

COME of this year's fashions, though designed, course, for slim women, are as kind as they can be to fat women. The striped fabrics, for instance. A plain dress with a narrow front and back striped panel is a great size diminisher. All narrow panels are.
All the small spot fabrics and small flower prints currently popular are good friends of yours. So are the front and back focused fullness on afternoon and evening dresses, the feeling for low V necklines.

The collarless edge-to-edge coat which rages this senson should never go out of a fat woman's wardrobe. Neither should the loose hip length or finger-tip length coat and dress ensemble. Especially when the coat has long turned-back fronts, as you see in the two coats drawn in this

It was intended that the ship was to go on a fairly lengthy cruise, including visits to Batavia, Thursday Island, Dunk Island and Sydney. She was to return to Hongkong by way of Cairas and other ports.

Whilst the ship was in Singapore, an unfortunate incident occurred on board The incident was unfortunate in every sense of the word for, in the aubmission of the prosecution, it was no exaggeration to say that it was the source and origin of all the trouble that followed, which finally culminated in the tragedy with which Public School Education | they were concerned. From that time onwards, the relations between Dwyer and Dickinson were completely changed. The incident in the flat assumed move serious proportions a few days later when Humphreys was found to be suffering from a disease. Apparently that came to the cars of Dickinson and apparently he spread rumours about Humphreys's disease. These rumours evidently came to the cars of Dickinson and apparently be spread rumours about Humphreys one day and asked him if he had got the disease from him. Humphreys said he had not and that

Repeated Threats

Throughout the remainder of the cruise, Dwyer was evidently planning to "get" Dickinson. He said at various times at Singapore, "Dickinson treats me like a dog, I will get him for it;" "I will get even with him," "I am a member of the rifle team, I can easily get some ammunition and I mean to shoot Dickinson."

It was true that Dwyer was a member of the rifle team and he could secrete some live rounds after practice and bring them on board. There were stringent regulations to provide against this, however, and one naturally wondered why a man who aspired to biflicer's rank and was most concerned about his promotion, should commit such a serious breach if he had been told of the incident inbout an hour before. Dwyer told the signalman he was not sorry as (Continued on Page 4)

if he had not some definite objective in view. After leaving Singapore, the ex-pressions of dislike became more virulent. When entering the harbour of Sydney, Dwyer was heard to say after an altereation with Dickinson; "I will put something through you." to which Dickinson replied: "Well, get on with it." While ashore at the New York Hotel, Dwyer was talking to some stokers and was slightly intoxicated when he said he had some rounds of ammunition and meant to shoot Dickinson the first chance he had. That this was no idle talk was evidenced by the remark of the proprietor who said: "You are a young man, don't be foolish: forget young man, don't be foolish; forget

Later Dwyer told Seaman Houston that he hated Dickinson and would shoot him from the booms during some night watch. A a matter of fact, Dickinson was shot from the booms on the first occasion that Dwyer was on the Middle, or night, Watch.

Dwyer had also asked if it was possible to shoot anybody on one of H. M. Ships and get away with it, and also whether it was possible to get firearms from on shore. While talking about the deserters at Sydney, Dwyer had switched the conversation to interpolate: "There would be a great panie on board if a murder was committed." After leaving Sydney. Dwyer was put on the Middle Watch on May 1, being from midnight to 4 n.m. About 10 p.m. previous to going on watch, Dwyer told a seaman he hoped Dickinson would not get so far as Weihniwel-where the ship was eventually bound.

Counsel said there was no difficulty in procuring a service rifle on board since they were kept in racks, many of which were unlocked.

In carrying it up to the booms there was chance of being seen by someone who would think it odd to be carrying a rifle at that time of night but overcoats were at hand to conceal the weapon. On the booms ie would be safe from observation since he could turn off the master light switch. There were many obstacles there and the booms were not much frequented Dwyer's plan called for boldness and confidence but there were no intrinsic difficulties. The uncertain factor that he could not control was whether Dickinson would go to sleep where, in fact, he did. Dwyer was on tricks from 2 to 4 a.m. and he therefore had to carry out his plan before 2 a.m. After the watch had been mustered at 2 a.m., Dwyer wandered into the recreation space and read a book About 12,39 a.m. he wandered off and returned about I a.m. Scaman Murphy came down to look for oilskins and Dickinson went to lie down on the upper deck near a boat, Murphy saw him twice and the second time Dickinson was asleep, Dwyer had looked through the port door, through which Dickinson could Young Edwin M. FRANCE DENIES BREACH

OF NEUTRALITY Paris, June 20. The French Government's surprise at Japanese allegations that France was sending war materials to China was expressed to the Japanese Ambassador to-day by M. Georges Bonnet, the Foreign Minister. Referring to the possibility of a Japanese invasion of Hainan Island, to which the Japanese Foreign Office spokesman referred yesterday, it is pointed out in responsible quarters that the Japanese Government in the past had indicated that the island would not be occupied if France observed neutrality.

The French Government considers that it has remained impartial in the Sino-Japanese conflict and therefore feets that there would be no justification for a Japanese occupation of Hainan Island. However, it is admitted that the occupation would not violate the Franco-Japanese Treaty of 1907.—Reuter.

It may happen to us to take a particular walk every day, from our home to our office, or from our office to our club, or from the station to our home.

Or again, most of us have known what it is to add up some simple figures, and fail to arrive at a correct total; to add them up again and to fail again; and even a third time, with the same result. In the end we find, perhaps, that we have been adding together eight and seven, and making the sum 13.

We know quite well that eight and seven do not make 13, but by some curious mental kink we have for a while made and persisted in the mistake. Or, in the same way it may happen that someone will put to us a perfectly simple and obvious proposition, and for a few the Kowloon Hospital and suggested minutes we are stricken with an obtuseness which forbids our compre-

It is not possible that during the early afternoon of Thursday, June 22, he suffered from one of those queer mental lapses of which many of us have had personal experience? That is at least a possible theory, which in the absence of any better explanation we may be inclined to accept. The order was Admiral Tryon's "blind spot."

WOULD ABANDON BOMBING

Britain Prepared To Cease Policing By R.A.F. Bombers

London, June 20. The opening of the international Red Cross Congress in London next Monday prompted the London Times to-day to discuss the question of the bombardment of open towns in a lengthy editorial, which contains the remarkable admission that Great Britain's own position in the matter is seriously prejudiced by the bombardment of native settlements on the North West Frontier of India. The Times denies that the attitude adopted by Britain at the Disarmament Conference in Geneva-when Britain demanded the insertion of a clause allowing the employment of certain regions—is responsible for the craft for policing purposes if such insistence stands in the way of a Mr. Moreing asked whether Mr. and expectation that second-quarter general agreement regarding the use

No surprises were registered in the first day's play at the Wimbledon tennis championships yesterday when first round matches in the men's singles were played.

Of the three Chinese who partifeipated, two got through to the next round, Kho Sin-kle, the Chinese champion who recently won the Bournemouth hard-court torunament, defeated H. A. Hare in three sets; W. C. Choy, another Chinese Davis Cupper and former Cambridge "Blue," had a two-hour match with Hamburger and emerged successful; but J. H. Ho was eliminated by Ranbir Singh, of India.

Donald Budge, holder and favourite for the title, was up against Gandar Dower, the former Cambridge allrounder, and won fairly comfortably in straight sets by 0-2, 0-3, 0-3, "Bunny" Austin, Great Britain's main hope, was fully extended by his young compatriot, Eric Filby, who took him to five sets before succumbing, Actually, Filby took the first set, but Austin came back to win the second with the loss of only one game. Then Filby won the third This was his last success, however; for Austin went on to annex the next Cricket two sets for the match.

English Test Selections Analysed

Sympathises With George Pope

The names of the thirteen selected to stand by for the second Test Match which begins on Friday next at Lord's will cause little surprise. In fact the only thing that occurred to me was that it was rather unlucky to select thirteen! Twelve would be too few -especially in these days of such fragile cricketers as we seem to have, but fourteen might be luckier even if it did mean an extra man missing a county match! Probably however it would not. Before the First Test no less than fifteen in all were warned for duty, I think.

With Hardstoff fit there is no doubt these men can be divided into seven part in the bowling. M.C.C. 387 and 31 for 2; Oxford who is the better man. Yardley's who are in the main batsmen and brilliant fielding especially in Cum- five who are bowlers. The names bridge matches this year resulted in run as follows. But there are plenty of men who could be called on for this. As a matter of fact Yardley is probably vastly relieved, as he will be uncommonly busy at Hove with his bowling is such consummate tripe Australian batting it would be im- drops out then I think the balance list of "Births and Deaths of the Oxford never ought to get out a state of the order of the oxford never ought to get out a state of the oxford never out a state of Cambridge eleven, of which the that Oxford never ought to get out possible in my opinion to drop two of those already picked will play.

WHO WILL PLAY?

there seem to be an amazing number of muscular injuries now-n-days, compared with one's recollection of those of the past—the first thing to remember is that the game is at Lord's—always a lively wicket, though better now than it has been for some time. Incidentally it is, I suppose, well known that Lord's has a very slight slope from the Scoring Box side down towards the Mound Stand side. Consequently it is easier to turn the ball from the off when bowling from the Pavilion end and from leg when bowling from the Nursery end. All this will be slightleant when we consider the bowling.

Make a forecast, as so much depends on the wicket and a selection quite possibly might not be made until the morning of the match. There are two outstanding points. If it is an absolute mud-pat I think one of the two fast bowlers would be dropped—possibly Farnes as Wellard spins them a bit more and would be available, for bowling for a longer period than Farnes who has to have a hard wicket. On the other hand if the wicket is hard and likely to be fast, there seems no doubt that the bowling. Sinfield or Weight and I imagine it would be

Interport Also Off

MR. Lee Wai-tong, the former Of the Hongkong Small-Ball Football Association, informed me yesterday that he had received a cable from Shanghal telling him that the rainy season had now descended on that city and suggesting that the proposed visit of an Interport smallball team from Hongkong be postponed until the autumn. Actually preparations at this end had been completed when the cable was received from Shanghal. Unfortunate, perhaps, but unavoldable. Shanghai was in perfeetly good faith when she asked local players to go north; I know it is much too hot for soccer and if the trip is to be a success it should be made later in the year.

TOE HULME, great footballer and d crieketer, has decided to pack his football kit for good and all. He will ever be remembered as one of the greatest line of forwards built up by the Arsenal. Hulme is wise not to wait until he may no longer hold his own among front rankers. He has had a long and eventful soccer life and has well carned the high honours that have been be-stowed upon him. He was a winger, who, though extravagantly given to outraging convention, had it in him to win a match all by himself. He would go spluttering along, neck or several trials were held in which foreign players took part. Anyhow, either with a perfectly-timed centre either with a perfectly-timed centre or a shot of tremendous force from an impossible angle plumb on the target. One never knew what to expect of him. The Story of PENITENTIARY

Walter CONNOLLY . John HOWARD Jean PARKER . Robert BARRAT Screenplay by Fred Niblo, Jr. & Scton I. Miller

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEPORE

Bill Jordan goes to a night club with a girl to colobrate his timenty-first birthday. Another man fries to lake the girl away from him and in the argument that follows, Bill kills him accidentally. Distirct Attorney Mathews sympathises with the boy's unfortunate plight. It is one of those unfortunate things, he says, that could happen to any body. Nevertheless, a man is dead and Bill must be punished. However, instead of trying him for murder, Mathews allows Bill to take a plea of manslaughter. Bill is sentenced to ten years in the state panisontiary. Bix years in the state panisontiary. Bix years the state penitontiary. Bix yours later we find Bill a hardoned, smbittered prisoner. He has been assigned to the prison fute mill and the dirt and dust of the place is breaking his morals and threatening to affect his lungs. Meanwhile, Mathews, who is being proomed for the governor's chair, is appointed warden of the pentientiary. Inasmuch as howas the man who prosecuted most of the immates, the prisoners stage a "welcome" for him when he arrives with his sister and his levely daughter, Elizabeth, to levely daughter, Elicabeth, to take over his new job. The convicts, assembled in the yard for their recreation period start their uncarthly "yammering" — a mothod they use to show their distike for something or someone, Against the advice of the head keeper, Warden Mathemas faces the men along in the yard. He winder out Tex. the prisoners' singles out Tex, the prisoners' self-appointed leader. When he nous district attorney, Mathews says, it was his job to prosecute and he did it. Note he's warden and it's his job to boss the prison. He's going to do is, Mathews treated exactly as he described.

Later, Bill collapses in the jute mill. The dector examines him and recommends a change of work and environment for him. He is summoned to Warden

Mathews office where Mathews recognizes him as the boy he sent up six years before. While Bill is there Mathews daughter, Elizabeth, comes in. Bill unconsciously reacts when he sees her. Mathews notices this and, seeing an opportunity to reclaim the hoy, appoints him as the Ma-

A few nights later Hawkins' warning proved true for, when Tex and Finch made their break, they found the guards ready for them. In the melec Finch was shot and Word quickly passed from cell to cell that Runch had been the aquealer. To protect him from the other prisoners, Warden Mathewa had transferred him to the warden's office and had him sleep in the attic, Meanwhile, Mothows was trying to get Runch transferred to another prison for safety.

He colleted the assistance of Commissioner McNaulty to effect the transfer. "Push it right through."

he urged. "That guy is driving me nuts. He's petrified—scared stiff.—
like a gat in a trap. And I'm respanible for him—responsible for his life. So get him off my bands." On the advice of Commissioner McNaulty, Warden Mathews sent Elizabeth away to visit one of her aunts. She was to be away for a week or two, until the excitement at the prison subsided.

Bill drove her to the station and carried her bags to the train pintform, "In there enything you'd like

"Put these in the kitchen, Harvey."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY Chapter Three

The next three months saw a great change in Bill Jordan. The surface hardness that six years in prison jute mill had given him, fell away. The pallor that six years of confinement had brought, took on colour and once again there was a flush in his cheeks and lustre in his eyes. The droop that six years of bending over a jute machine had brought, disappeared and he was once again a staiwart, square-shouldered young man. young man.

The prison dector met Elizabeth. It for me. You see, I don't think Warden Mathews' daughter one day I could ever be happy again unless and commented on it. "I want to —unless I could see you every day." congratulate you," he said, "on the miracle, you have performed in three short months."

Elizabeth blushed and just at that moment her train arrived. Impulsively she extended her hand and

Dr. Rinewulf said. "I mean your chauffour. It took prison life six years to break him and you mend him in three months."

"Only a week," she softly. "Goodbye, Bill."

Bill released her hand. "Miss Elizabeth," he said.

Elizabeth's happy laughter was interrupted by Bill's arrival, laden!
